KEY POINTS

- Azienda Carafa Jacobini is a family-owned estate sprawling over thirty hectares (80 acres) just south of Rome in Ariccia, Lazio's wine country. Within this historic wine-growing area, vineyards have thrived for millennia thanks to its volcanic soil.
- Native grapes of Procanico, a native clone of Trebbiano, are carefully selected and handpicked to produce our limited high quality, organic, IGP Lazio denomination wine.
- Producers since the 1600's, the family Jacobini has a rich history, vast experience and traditions, along with knowledge of modern wine techniques and deep respect for our certified organic farming.

HISTORY

Since the 1600's, Jacobini wines have been known for their high quality and exported worldwide. References to our prize winning wines date back to the Grand Tour era, and the Imperial Court of Vienna would place orders of our "perfect and delicious wine".

During WWII our production facilities were destroyed by bombing and two young brothers died in combat, leaving only a sister Margherita. Margherita joined forces with other local wine producers and became a founding member and main contributor of a winery cooperative which reached international recognition.

In 2019, we started writing a new page in our history by once again becoming sole producers and bringing back our family name. With our limited, high quality vintage, we continue a heritage of producing beautiful wine.

GEOGRAPHY

Located 20km/13mi south of Rome, our vineyards are in the Colli Albani (Alban hills), a land of volcanic origin, nearby two crater lakes: Albano and Nemi.

The hills contain volcanic tuff, a combination of ash and small rocks; our soil is rich in argilla, magnesium and minerals excellent for grapes and winemaking.

Climate is mitigated the Alban hills and its proximity to the sea, all contributing to a well-structured, fresh and sapid wine.

Our wine is designated IGP Lazio.

ORGANIC VINEYARDS

The Jacobini Estate is comprised of two individual hilly vineyards that have always followed organic practices. We have organic farming certification and our wine is organic. Each vineyard features a collection of Procanico, Trebbiano Toscano, Malvasia di Candia and Malvasia del Lazio, all grape varieties native to Lazio.

For our Jacobini IGP Lazio, we choose only the best Procanico grapes from our vineyard Poggio del Cardinale (Cardinal's Hill). We harvest the grapes by hand.
