PASTA CUOMO

In 1832, Antonio, Crescenzo and Nicola Cuomo were producing macaroni pasta renting water mills owned by the Marquises Quiroga, in the Campania Region. Some years later, one of their nephews, Nicolino, developed a pasta factory at the ancient family palace, strictly following the Pasta di Gragnano tradition. The Molino mill and pasta factory of Nicolino Cuomo quickly became the most avant-garde in the pasta industry. After 60 years the pasta production was resumed by Mariano Cuomo and his children, Amelia, Anna and Alfonso. They are committed to giving new life to the places where their bicentenary history began. Nowadays, they are still custodians of the family secrets concerning the production of their flavoured macaroni.
