Our history

Cantina Gualtieri has a long history. In 1958, an idea became a concrete project, thanks to the passion of 21 men determined to share the love for their land.

One step at a time, the dream came true and the small provincial winery was transformed into a reality capable of exporting to 27 different countries.

Who we are

160 members of grapes who know how to best express our territory.

There are 107 members from the province of Reggio Emilia, while 53 are members from the province of Mantua.

A heterogeneous social base and united by their love for the winery.

Where we are

---

our Cantina di Gualtieri is located in the heart of the plain.

The rustic and Po valley, characterized by people of character, open and lively like the wine we produce.

Children of a generous land, capable of giving a lot only if worked well with passion and commitment.

Social, why?

The goal of each individual shareholder is to contribute in the best possible way to achieve the best result.

Furthermore, the link with one's origins translates all this into a wonderful teamwork which also includes the workers, the beating heart of the winery's production activity.

From grape to bottle

The Cantina di Gualtieri turns out to be one of the last Lambrusco producers able to follow the entire wine production chain directly. From grape harvesting to bottling, every single step is carried out in our factory under our direct supervision.

Naïf - the philosophy of our grapes

Naïve art is often seen as outsider art.

The characteristics of naïve art have an awkward relationship to the formal qualities of painting, especially not respecting the three rules of the perspective.

Simplicity rather than subtlety are all supposed markers of naïve art. I

the father of our labels

Antonio Ligabue was an Italian painter. He was one of the most important Naïve artists of the 20th century.

Ligabue is often celebrated as the 'Italian Van Gogh', Ligabue is frequently situated on the line between genius and madness.

His foster mother wrote: 'He has a tremendous love of animals, almost more than for people'
