NUTRACEUTICS APPLIED TO SKIN CARE

With Colours of Life SKIN SUPPLEMENT we combine the effectiveness of our food supplements, Food SUPPLEMENT, with the development of skin care formulas, SKIN Care.

Food SUPPLEMENT + SKIN Care = SKIN SUPPLEMENT

EUDERMIC CREAMS

9 formulations designed to provide immediate relief to the treated parts of the body, thanks to the high percentage of natural active ingredients extracted from medicinal plants. With 40% of Aloe vera BIO certified Cosmos Organic at the base of INCI.

FACIAL SERUMS

6 serums + 1 water cream

Specific formulations based on innovative "food grade" ingredients, ideal for creating a personalized skin care based on the skin needs. Serums can in fact be used alone, or associated with the water cream, a nourishing and antioxidant base cream.

SOLID DETERGENTS

3 shower gels and 3 shampoos

Formulas with natural ingredients, vitamins and plant extracts for skin care even in the cleansing phase. They are not soaps, they are eco-friendly (biodegradable formulas, plastic-free packaging) and each detergent is equivalent to 2 bottles of 250 ml. The detergents are equipped with a cotton cord, appropriately marked in order to distinguish shampoo and shower gel, which allows them to be hung in the shower, preventing them from remaining in contact with water.

BODY OILS AND SERUMS

2 PURE OILS – Jojoba and Prickly pear

2 SYNERGIES OILS – Cellulitis and Omega 3.6.9

2 BODY SERUMS – Stretch marks and Belly & Hips

Formulas with natural ingredients dedicated to body skin care and specific areas and imperfections (cellulitis, stretch marks...). Oils provide nourishment and elasticity to the skin, protecting it from dehydration and external stress factors. The serums, concentrated with functional actives, act on skin blemishes and imperfections and on critical areas, helping to minimise them.

LIQUID HYDROLYSED MARINE COLLAGEN

Collagen is a very complex protein molecule, produced by the body in adequate quantities until certain factors intervene to reduce its concentration; among the main ones there are certainly: unbalanced diet, alcohol and tobacco consumption, oxidative stress, drugs (antibiotics, birth control pills, antidepressants...). Studies have unanimously highlighted the benefits that supplementing with collagen can bring: the skin becomes more elastic again and the signs of aging, such as wrinkles and skin spots, are reduced. The joints acquire greater strength and mobility and the muscles become more toned.

There are dozens of collagen-based products on the market, but they are not all the same. In fact, there is collagen of bovine, porcine, chicken-derived and fish-derived origin. There is also a vegetable variant, extensin, a protein contained in cereals, soy, seaweed, defined as "vegetable collagen", given its high hydroxyproline content, but which is not comparable to collagen proper.

Compared to collagen from other animal sources, marine type collagen has an amino acid composition richer in serine, threonine and methionine; there is also a high rate of glycine and significant levels of proline and hydroxyproline. Due to this composition, marine collagen is more soluble, digestible and more easily assimilated by the body.

THE POMEGRANATE

The Pomegranate (Punica Granatum) is a shrub belonging to the Punicacee family, characterized by large scarlet flowers and fragrant red-gold fruits which contain over 400 firm and juicy seeds. The juice extracted from the pomegranate stands out for its antioxidant qualities, being rich in compounds of a phenolic nature, in particular ellagic acid, gallic and digallic acid (located mainly in the pulp and skin of the fruit), to which we owe the strong antioxidant and anti-inflammatory activity. There are also some alkaloids (the pilgrim in the root), phytoestrogens (estrone, estradiol, genistin and cumestrol in the seeds), which represent a valid aid in keeping cholesterol levels under control. Also relevant is the presence of oleic and linoleic acid, vitamins B and C, mineral salts, tannins and fibres.

Over the years, numerous international scientific studies have shown that the juice extracted from the pomegranate is a valid aid for the prevention of risks and disorders related to the cardiovascular system. Furthermore, thanks to the intrinsic antibacterial, tonic and diuretic properties, the pomegranate contributes to the general state of well-being of the individual. Numerous scientific studies confirm that the daily intake of a few milliliters of pomegranate juice confers a protective effect on the cardio circulatory system. For this purpose, the Heart of Pomegranate line was created, which guarantees complete therapy to keep the cardiovascular system in good health.

KRILL OIL

Antarctic Krill oil is a new generation lipid extracted from krill (Euphausia Superba), tiny crustaceans (shrimps), which thrive in the pristine waters of Antarctica.

This fatty acid extract already includes: Choline, Omega-3, Omega-6 and Omega-9, vitamin E, phospholipids and astaxanthin.

The basic constituents of cell membranes present in Krill are in the same proportion and with the same structure as those present in the human body and are therefore more bioavailable than the Omega-3s in fish oil.

Intake of the omega-3 fatty acids EPA and DHA has been linked to many health benefits, ranging from improved cardiovascular health and cognitive function to reduced levels of inflammation in the body.

A clinical study conducted on 76 men and women has highlighted an overall increase in EPA and DHA: after 7 weeks the subjects who took Krill oil had a level of fatty acids 45% higher than the subjects who used krill oil fish from other unsaturated fatty acids oleic acid represents the best known and most appreciated fatty acid of the Omega-9 series: it is mainly contained in olive oil (60-80%). It is known in the health sector for its ability to prevent cardiovascular disease.

DIGESTIVE ENZYMES

Digestion is the process that uses the most energy in our body, which is why it can happen that you feel tired and exhausted after a normal lunch or the ingestion of some particular foods. Indispensable in this process are the DIGESTIVE ENZYMES, biological catalysts produced by the pancreas, responsible for the breakdown of large molecules, proteins, fats and sugars into smaller and simpler components (amino acids, fatty acids, glucose), so as to be absorbed by the body more easily. PROVIDA® DIGESTIVE HEALTH represents a unique and complete line for all needs:

- We use FUNGAL ENZYMES, obtained from the fermentation of maltodextrin through the spores of the Aspergillus fungus. The only ones naturally active within a wide pH range and can work along the entire digestive tract.
- The peculiar formulation guarantees a "CASCADE" DIGESTIVE EFFECT for a complete digestion of food. The synergistic action of several enzymes combined together allows not only the transformation of the poorly tolerated element, but also the splitting of the by-products generated by this process.

REGULAR LAX

It is a food supplement based on 99% Pure Psyllium Fiber, with the addition of Bacillus Coagulans spores, useful for promoting intestinal regularity.

Psyllium (Plantago Ovata) is a herbaceous plant, characterized by a spike inflorescence and brown seeds. The parts used in phytotherapy are seeds and cuticle, which contain large quantities of mucilage. The fiber obtained from Psyllium is a passive fiber, it is not absorbed by the body and does not irritate the intestinal mucosa, but promotes intestinal peristalsis. Regular Lax promotes a soothing action on the gastrointestinal system, facilitates the formation of soft and flowing stools and is able to decrease the assimilation of lipids and carbohydrates.

ALOE VERA

Aloe Vera (Aloe Barbadensis Miller) is a plant known for centuries for its beneficial properties. In order to survive long periods of drought, this plant encloses large quantities of water and functional substances inside the leaf, which are produced by the plant itself. The result is the formation of a gel rich in elements such as polysaccharides, mineral salts, vitamins, proteins, essential amino acids, organic acids, enzymes, which make Aloe Vera juice and pulp precious allies for the well-being of the organism.

PROBIOTICS

The term "probiotics" indicates microorganisms capable of producing favorable effects on health through a rebalancing action on the intestinal flora. Provida Probiotics Plus, in addition to a balanced mixture of 4 strains of live lactic ferment, contains Bacillus coagulans spores, which guarantee high resistance of the microorganisms. This unique high-strength blend allows the product to be used in association with antibiotic therapies and in any case of intestinal dysbiosis. The blend also contains Fructo-oligosaccharides, which are a source of nourishment for the good bacterial flora, and B vitamins.

ENZYBLEND® DIGESTIVE ENZYME MIXTURE

The enzymes that make up the Enzyblend® blend are derived from maltodextrins fermented through the spores of the Aspergillus fungus; this production process constitutes a peculiarity compared to other types of enzymes, such as those obtained from animal sources (Trypsin, Pepsin, Pancreatin) or from other vegetable sources (Papain, Bromelain). Enzyblend® enzymes exhibit maximum functional activity at temperatures typical of the human body (between 30 and 40°C), as opposed to the temperatures at which animal enzymes (between 50 and 60°C) and vegetable enzymes (between 20° and 30°C) reach their greatest activity. Furthermore Enzyblend® works indiscriminately in environments ranging from pH 3.0 to 9.0, i.e. along the entire gastrointestinal tract (while vegetable enzymes work only in the acidic pH of the stomach and animal enzymes are substantially active in an alkaline pH). More precisely, their activity begins in the upper portion of the stomach, where the ingested foods remain for about 45 minutes before moving on to the next portion where gastric acids are present. As demonstrated by Dr. Howell's studies, the pool of enzymes that makes up Enzyblend® is able to digest up to 60% of carbohydrates, 30% of proteins and 10% of fats already in an early phase, thus reducing the need for production of subsequent digestive enzymes by the pancreas, improving the entire digestive process.

PROVIDA® LACTO SUPPORT, 40 vegetable capsules of 360 mg

Food supplement based on fungal enzymes to fully digest milk and dairy products, thanks to its 'cascade' formulation.

WHY BUY IT

Provida® Lacto support is one of the most powerful blends of natural enzymes recognised for their ability to break down lactose and its derivatives. Its unique formulation facilitates the breakdown of dairy products that naturally contain Lactose and Casein. The careful blend of 'cascade' enzymes enables not only the breakdown of Lactose but also the by-products of this breakdown, thus avoiding all the side discomforts that mono-enzymatic formulas can cause.

DIRECTIONS

Take one or two tablets daily, preferably before meals, with some water.

BACILLUS COAGULANS is a safe and effective probiotic that survives the acid pH of the stomach and it reaches the small intestine without losing its beneficial properties. Unlike other probiotics, it forms reproductive structures called 'spores', i.e. a protein coating that acts as a barrier and allows B. coagulans to survive stomach acid, bile and variations in body temperature and thus arrive active in the gut. Its task is to increase and to rebalance the intestinal bacterial flora by hindering the proliferation of bad ones.

PRODUCTS

- GLUCOSAMINA JOINT FLEX PLUS
- GLUCOSAMINA JOINT FLEX GEL STRONG

GLUCOSAMINE

Glucosamine is abundantly present in the shells of crustaceans and it is from these shells that it is produced by hydrolysis commercialy. Glucosamine is involved in the production of glycosaminoglycans, essential for cartilage. Like many other substances, with aging, the amount of glucosamine produced by the body decreases and obviously the cartilage degrades.

Glucosamine taken alone is effective, but scientific studies have shown that its association with Chondroitin, present in some marine fish, accelerates and enhances their long-term effectiveness.

Chondroitin is a glycosaminoglycan, which works in synergy with glucosamine; in fact, thanks to the particular conformation that allows it to attract and retain a lot of water to be transferred to the proteoglycan molecules, it nourishes and lubricates the joints.

Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) is a water-soluble vitamin, necessary for the body to synthesize collagen capable of strengthening cartilage, bones and muscles.

THE PROPERTIES OF TITRATED DRY EXTRACTS

The dry extract is the concentrated form of the phytocomplex, the active part of the plant used in the extraction process. The titrated dry extract differs from common dry extracts as it guarantees an always regular quantity of phytocomplex.

In this way, greater benefits are obtained, because the titrated dry extract allows the properties and beneficial effects of the part of the plant used in the best possible way. The titrated dry extracts meet a long series of requirements such as: respect for the genetic components of the plant used, the climatic elements, the exact harvesting period, the conservation methodology, the processing systems.

ECHINACEA

Echinacea is a perennial plant belonging to the Asteraceae family, which includes about nine species and two varieties. The best known from a phytotherapeutic point of view are Echinacea Purpurea and Echinacea Angustifolia, of which both roots and inflorescences are used.

The medicinal use of Echinacea dates back to the American Indians, who used to apply poultices of roots on wounds, snake bites, insect bites and burns. Echinacea was also used by these populations for the preparation of mouthwashes for toothache and sore gums, infusions for colds, coughs and sore throats. The inflorescences contain derivatives of ferulic and caffeic acid, such as chicoric acid, echinacoside, chlorogenic acid; there are also flavonoids and essential oils with various terpenes. The roots are characterized by the presence of caffeic acid derivatives and the most active constituent is cynarin; we also find polysaccharides, such as inulin and fructans, sugars and essential oils.

Echinacea is notoriously used to prevent and treat seasonal disorders affecting the upper respiratory tract, flu and viral infections. It turns out to be very effective to stimulate the immune system, increasing the body's natural defenses.

MANUKA

The exclusive Manuka honey is obtained from the nectar of the flowers of the Manuka shrub; from the leaves, the Essential Oil. Manuka Benefit® offers an effective and complete line to counteract the first symptoms of flu and colds, for coughs, to strengthen the immune system and for the well-being of the gastrointestinal system. Produced in rural areas of Australia and New Zealand, still immune to pollution, monofloral Manuka honey is obtained from the nectar of Leptospermum flowers, a shrub that grows spontaneously along the coasts of New Zealand and South Australia Oriental.

Manuka honey, in addition to naturally containing sugars, mineral salts and vitamins, has a characterizing substance: Methylglyoxal, which gives it natural antibacterial and immunostimulant properties. Manuka essential oil is obtained by hydrodistillation of fresh leaves without the use of chemical substances, a process that allows the preservation of the active ingredients that give it antimicrobial capacity, especially against some types of microorganisms capable of triggering inflammation in the respiratory tract and gastrointestinal tract.

The Italian Ministry of Health, with Ministerial Decree 09 July 2012, certified that the essential oil obtained from Manuka is able to promote the functionality of the upper respiratory tract and the fluidity of bronchial secretions and has a balsamic effect.

THE POTASSIUM ALUM

A colorless and odorless stone, found in nature. Today it is also known as Rock alum or Rock stone. Since ancient times this stone has been appreciated as a natural antibacterial and hypoallergenic deodorant. Human sweat is originally odorless, but it represents an excellent place for the propagation of bacteria, which are responsible for the so-called "smell of sweat".

The potassium alum, on the other hand, acts on the cause of the bad smell, i.e. the intense bacterial proliferation that occurs when you sweat. The saline component of this stone counteracts the acids that can be formed, inhibiting the reproduction of the bacteria responsible for the bad smell, while still leaving the perspiration of the body active.

It is therefore considered suitable for those suffering from allergies to synthetic fragrances. Potassium alum does not cover bad smells, but acts by limiting the proliferation of the bacteria that cause them. Does not leave streaks on clothes.

Sometimes it is used for the rapid healing of cuts caused on the skin by shaving the beard, in case of hemorrhoids or bleeding gums. It is also used to relieve itching caused by insect bites and to heal cold sores and pimples more quickly.

TEA TREE OIL

The Melaleuca alternifolia, better known as Tea Tree, is a plant belonging to the Myrtaceae family. It is native to Australia, particularly the north coast of New South Wales, where it grows near streams and swamps. It grows to a maximum height of 6 metres, with white flowers grouped in clusters. From the leaves, the precious essential oil is obtained through a distillation process. Tea tree oil comprises more than 100 organic compounds and it is from this rich composition that its numerous properties derive. The active ingredients that make tea tree essential oil so special and effective are mainly terpinene-4-ol and 1,8-cineole.

Australian Company Tea Tree essential oil is native to Australia and meets the quality standards imposed by the Australian government, which has stipulated that, by law, Melaleuca essential oil must contain more than 30% terpineol and less than 15% cineol in order to be classified as Tea Tree oil.

By virtue of its broad-spectrum antiseptic properties, this essential oil is useful in cases of:

- insect bites, itching and skin inflammation
- acne and furuncles
- nail mycosis
- prevention of pediculosis and dandruff
- upper respiratory tract disorders
