PROFILE

modostudio | cibinel laurenti martocchia architetti associati, located in Rome, is a multidisciplinary practice of architecture, urban planning and industrial design. Profiting from the diversified skills of the founding partners and the continual collaboration with experts from various fields, modostudio combines architectural theory, research, innovation and experimentation with high technical knowledge and professionalism.

Established at the end of 2006 by three principal architects, Fabio Cibinel, Roberto Laurenti, and Giorgio Martocchia, after many years of collaborating with internationally acclaimed architects like Massimiliano Fuksas, Piero Sartogo, Erik Van Egeraat and Kas Oosterhuis, modostudio in a short time was awarded and shortlisted in many international architectural competitions.

Modostudio partners have been teaching architecture at Cornell University, faculty of architecture in 2008, 2013, 2016 and 2018, sustainable design at Inarch postgraduate master between 2010 and 2016 and architectural design at IED - European Institute of Design in Rome between 2011 and 2015.

Modostudio works have been published in a wide range of specialist literature and exhibited in the Italian Pavillion at 16th and 13th Architecture Biennale (2018, 2012) in Venice and at Shanghai Expo 2010.

SELECTED PROJECTS

Modostudio works are characterized for using experimental and innovative construction materials. The design approach starts from the analysis of the context, pursuing the highest environmental and energy sustainability.

Thanks to an integrated design through the use of 3D modelling softwares, the office is specialized in high complexity technological building design. A focus on the energy and functional building retrofiting led the office to be highly specialized in the design reuse of existing buildings.
