GIUSEPPE STEFANELLI

Company

Who We are

Giuseppe Stefanelli is an Italian brand specialized in the production of luxury cashmere trousers and skirts for women.

Ours is the story of a craft company founded in 1980 by Giuseppe Aprile, serving as making of trousers and skirts for luxury brands. Forty years later Giuseppe Stefanelli, grandson of Giuseppe Aprile, takes the reins of the company and he begins to launch his own brand by combining expertise and devotion to production of clothing with innovation regarding the use of cashmere fabric for trousers.

We are located in Supersano in the province of Lecce, a few kilometres from Santa Maria di Leuca, which was called "De Finibus Terrae" by the Romans, where the earth ends and the two seas meet.

The pursuit of excellence

The key principles underlying the company's identity and philosophy are the research and selection of the finest cashmere, exclusively from top Italian supplier (Botto Giuseppe and Loro Piana) and the quality excellence in craftsmanship, which encompasses all the beauty of our products, the culture of our territory, values and our know-how.

The production is made entirely in the historic center at Supersano (Apulia, Italy) by an extremely specialized workforce, according to the tradition and typical identity of Apulian craftsmanship in tailoring. The finished product is always subjected to strict controls so that the highest quality is always guaranteed.

Cashmere

Raw material par excellence of our collections, cashmere has ancient origins and traditions. It develops in the territories of Central Asia, where the precious resource is born as a natural protection for the animals from the wide thermal changes.

To survive the severe climate, in fact, Hircus goats develop a dense subheading composed of thousands of fine and incredibly soft fibers, hidden by the longer and coarser hair visible on the outside. The undercoat serves as thermal insulation for animals, protecting them from the succession of days and nights, hot summers and cold winters, in which the temperature can drop to 30 ° C below zero.

Cashmere quality

Cashmere is a very soft and light material, breathable, able to absorb sweat, incredibly soft in contact with the skin. The inner tube warms the wearer pleasantly. This heat-insulating fiber absorbs moisture through porous hair and pushes it outward by making it evaporate. It also serves as a thermal insulation for the body in order to maintain a constant temperature, which makes it suitable to wear both in the cold winter and summer months (ensuring a pleasant feeling of freshness).

Beyond the extrinsic characteristics, another advantage of cashmere lies in its longevity. Cashmere trousers, in fact, are made to last a life and are bequeathed.
