Andrei Alaverdov
Founder & CEO
Clöre Srl

“I believe that a company can have an impact in the world, through the people that work in it and that act in their community, as private and also as business-men and business-women.

Clöre has this attitude in its dna, because our business is to find the way to assure a long life to the objects, bringing them toward those markets ready to appreciate and give them still a last concrete value.

We want to respect the world, that no needs further wastes, and respect the people and the environment where we live.”
