

ARMERIA MESCHIERI

MADE IN ITALY

OUR STORY

Valcarengi is our family name, ages ago, we took in charge the historical Armeria Meschieri with much personal commitment.

Hunting weapons and fishing rods soon were placed side by side with clothing and accessories where our customers can find the high quality we represent. Belts, ties and shirts are now the main products we focus on and research for quality really enriched our proposal, now we offer unique pieces made up from our own artisans.

The use of high quality materials so as the attention to details and to finishes gave us the results we are pleased to introduce.

OUR CLASSIC SHIRTS

Our classic men's shirts are constructed with refined methods and techniques that guarantee strength, durability and wearability.

- Shoulder attached to finished body

The body of the shirt is prepared first and only then is the shoulder inserted, through a rotation method which improves the way the shirt hangs. It is a labour intensive, seldom used technique borrowed from the traditional tailoring of jackets.

- Hand sewn, double shoulder

The tailoring skill of the craftsmen is imperative to obtain a meticulous and harmonious finish.

- Proper Proportions

The proportions of the shirt are carefully balanced to provide an excellent fit. For example, the amount of fabric found under the arms is kept to a minimum in order not to interfere with the wearability of the jacket or suit.

The amount of fabric in the front of the shirt under the tie is reduced to minimize excess thickness which can look bulky and unrefined. The sleeves have a notable cone shape which reduces excessive pleats near the cuff.

- Stitching

The pieces of fabric used to create the shirt are sewn together twice: first they are joined together, then they are reversed and re-stitched. Eight to ten stitches are sewn per centimeter ensuring seams that are strong and esthetic.

- Mother of Pearl Buttons

We only use Australian buttons, the best on the market, sewn with a so-called stem which facilitates buttoning up and guarantees a stronger hold.

- The Fly

The Fly, a piece of strong fabric in the pentagon shape, is stitched to the bottom end of the sides of the shirt to give increased strength and durability.

- The Button Hole

The stitching of the button hole is characterized by a clean look and reinforced by several rounds of stitching.

- The Cloth

Only fabric of the highest quality produces the outstanding results that we demand.

These and other details are what make Armeria Meschieri shirts a truly unique product.

OUR CASUAL SHIRTS

Our casual shirts are created with the same careful attention to detail that distinguishes our dress shirts from others. Naturally some characteristics change radically, like inside weight or the shape and proportions of the body and collar.

For example, our collars are made using a refined technique borrowed from tailors of old: a single uncut piece of fabric is folded over and sewn on the inside, down the front of the shirt to the height of the second and third button providing invisible extra thickness in that area. This detail is difficult to manufacture, but its refinement is easily apparent. The shirt maintains its shape throughout the day, especially near the top buttons, with a collar that doesn't sag but remains upright. We wanted to characterize our casual shirts with this feature in order to obtain a product above the fray, from fabric to construction, as is our custom.
