

Presentation

Il Cuoietto is a company located in the leather district, in Tuscany, Italy formed by two artisans.

The owner is Mauro, a craftsman, leather maker and mechanic with more than 30 years of experience in the sector.

Luigi, younger than Mauro, supports him and deals with marketing and the digital world.

The basic product is leather thread, which is used in looms for the production of fabric, or hand-woven for bags, belts and various accessories.

We start from the choice of leathers, which are all made of vegetable-tanned cow in full flower, that is, the highest quality, we cut, work, color and finish until we get to the finished product.

We also deal with third-party processing, for which we use both the leathers of our choice and possibly leather provided by the customer.

In recent years we have worked on the creation of various models of belts, both for men and women, using our own thread.

As for the choice and processing of leather, we have brought back the same attention and search for quality for the realization of belts, in fact, we have chosen the characteristic, and now very rare, hand weaving, a symbol of quality and craftsmanship to continue to stand out also in the world of belts.

Given the rarity and quality of our product, we think it can have a great value also and especially abroad, the reason for this presentation.

Below you will find some pictures of the wire and belts to get a clearer idea of what our products are.
