Our company

HISTORY. In the heart of the Veronese countryside, at the beginning of the 20th century, the Ferron family took over the management of the Pila Vecia, a factory built in 1650 and still in operation today, starting a story of passion and dedication that has been handed down through five generations.

The tradition of rice processing has always been an integral part of Riseria Ferron's identity. From the very beginning, the mission has been to continue the production of high quality rice, relying on artisanal care and the careful selection of the best lots of paddy rice.

Through the decades, the Ferron family has withstood the challenges of time, holding firm to its passion for this unique cereal. Gabriele Ferron, the current guardian of the family tradition, has always played a key role in the selection of the best lots of paddy rice. His expertise, but above all his profound knowledge of the raw material, honed over the years, is a guarantee that only the finest grains are processed and used in the company's products.

Today, Riseria Ferron is nationally and internationally renowned for high quality rice. The combination of traditional techniques and modern quality standards has made the rice varieties on offer popular with chefs, cooking enthusiasts and quality-conscious consumers.

The story of the Ferron family is an ode to passion and dedication in preserving the roots of a tradition that has stood the test of time. With an unwavering commitment to quality, the Ferron family continues to be a reference point offering customers the authentic taste of Italian tradition.

PILA VECIA. The history of the Pila Vecia began as far back as the 17th century, when the noble Zenobio family had it built in Isola della Scala at Passolongo in 1650. From the beginning of the 20th century, management was entrusted to the Ferron family, who currently own the property, and since then, five generations have managed the historic rice husking factory. During the Second World War, the structure was saved from German bombing and became a 'safe haven' for displaced families in the area, who formed a small independent community called 'Little Italy', and for war refugees, for whom the Ferron family actively worked to repatriate.

Today, the Pila Vecia is the oldest working rice mill in Italy and is used to mill a limited quantity of very high quality rice destined for haute cuisine.

The Pila Vecia is a historical monument protected by the Superintendence of Cultural Heritage of the Ministry of Culture, a pearl in a unique territory, which is also subject to landscape protection. Over the years, the charm of the Pila Vecia has attracted numerous scholars, journalists and television stations fascinated by the structure, its machinery, the traditional rice processing and the history that links all these elements to the Ferron family.
