PREFACE

Borsa Vini Italiani holds a prominent position in the Italian Trade Agency's calendar as the main wine trade tasting event.

Visitors will have the opportunity to explore circa 200 wines at an exclusive walk-around tasting at the Royal Horticultural Halls, in the Lindley Hall in London.

The 41 exhibitors won't miss the chance to demonstrate the excellence, history and deeprooted cultural heritage of Made in Italy productions that accommodate all tastes thanks to Italy's variety of terroirs. Producers are seeking to strengthen their distribution within the UK market and are keen to meet professionals that are interested in adding high-quality Italian wines to their portfolio.

This year the Italian Trade Agency has partnered with Bottlebooks to initiate the networking between producers and visitors prior to the event, but also to act as a live hub with all the information regarding this year's edition.

This year's Borsa Vini Italiani will showcase wines from 13 regions, including Piedmont, Lombardy, Friuli-Venezia Giulia, Veneto, Tuscany, Marche, Abruzzo, Campania, Apulia, Calabria, Sicily, Sardinia and Umbria, to take visitors on a tantalising journey through Italy. From sparkling to classic and refreshing wines, from powerful and opulent, to elegant and intense, including white, sweet, red and rosé varieties. The styles on offer represent the rich diversity found in Italy. Ranging from international grapes to indigenous ones, these wines are crafted using traditional, low-intervention, and regularly organic methods, providing a multitude of options for exploration.

Top trends to look out for at Borsa Vini Italiani 2024:

- Indigenous varieties: Italian wineries will showcase a diverse range of indigenous grape varieties alongside the classics, allowing guests to explore the richness and diversity of Italy's viticultural landscape.
- Italian fine wine: The event will feature premium Italian wines from select producers, highlighting the country's winemaking expertise and terroir-driven expressions.
- Sustainability focus: Borsa Vini may also spotlight wineries that prioritise sustainability and organic practices, showcasing those producers whose vinous efforts align with their environmental values.
- Alternative styles: Guests will find wines made by producers experimenting with innovative winemaking techniques, including orange wines, canned wines, piwi and other alternative styles, meaning distributors can connect their buyers with unique and exciting offerings.

The event will feature 3 masterclasses, providing attendees with the opportunity to delve deeper into the tasting experience and gain further insights into Italy's diverse production and terroir, which continually offer new discoveries.

ITA London director Giovanni Sacchi says: "Borsa Vini Italiani serves as a dynamic showcase of Italian wines, reflecting the evolving preferences and trends within the UK market while offering attendees the opportunity to explore the breadth and depth of Italy's wine offerings. As we know, the UK market is a prevalent destination of Italian wine and beverage exports. We are confident that this year's Borsa Vini Italiani will be fruitful in encouraging new business partnerships to strengthen and widen the presence of Italian wines in this country."

Our project started 30 years ago when the owner, Mr. Luigi Marangoni. bought the 30-hectar estate and started to restore the biodiversity of the environment. During the next years, many species have come back both animal and vegetal ones. In the 11-hectar vineyard we grow Merlot. Istrian Malvasia, Palava (a white grape coming from Moravia, Traminer X Muller-Thurgau). The winery is betting on PIWI varieties (resistant to fungal diseases), which do not need sulphur and copper in the vineyard. PIWIs are becoming more and more interesting in the market as SUPER-ORGANIC products.

The company is born from the passion of two Trentino guys for the Sulcis territory and its peculiarities. In 2017, they acquire old carignano and vermentino vineyards in a state of neglect in highly suitable areas, reviving them and achieving high-quality productions from 2020. The vineyards are organically managed with minimal soil work and no use of herbicides and fungicides. In the cellar, they let time and nature take their course, challenging conventional practices. The ancient Carignano vineyards are cultivated without rootstock on sandy soils, averting phylloxera development.

It is a pioneer in organic wine making as it was founded in 1974 by Fiammetta Inga, mother of the current owner, a farsighted woman that brought her to choose an organic approach although in Italy few at the time were interested- or even new about it. Ours is a family business, cultivating the land for generations; but just a few years ago passion moved us to dedicate ourselves to the cultivation of grapes and the production of wine. Our vineyards are located in the upper Squaranto Valley in the hills north of Verona, part of the Valpolicella region near the Lessinia Regional Nature Park. The land lies in an area unique for the particular nature of its soil: basalt, Lessinia marble, and flint rocks emerge from the ground. The latter has been used by man since the Stone Age for the manufacture of tools, and later as flint.

They combine sustainable agricultural practices, cutting-edge technologies, enological expertise, and Salento's three secret ingredients: lu sule(the sun), lu mare(the sea), lu ientu(the wind). TAVERNA family estate was founded in the 1930-s by the grandfather of the current owner Roberto Taverna. He bought and planted vineyards in Neive, one of the 4 villages of Barbaresco DOCG area. The estate was among the first to bottle Barbaresco cru wines, like the "Cascina Slizza" one (now part of Gaia-Principe MGA) back in 1969 under the name of Vina Versio, the founder's widow. The first estate's "official" vintage is 2016 and since 2019, with the entry of a new winemaker, Taverna Wines has started to vinify the most part of the estate produced grapes.
