Company Profile

Annatura is a line of fresh vegetables that you can find in the refrigerators of the most important supermarket chains.

The products are packed in practical and innovative containers which keep all the nutritional properties of the vegetables, without adding any preservatives or additives. Thus the vegetables, which have been boiled only in water, stay fresh for 30 days in your fridge.

Annatura only chooses fresh seasonal Italian products.

Each container mentions the region where the product comes from, guaranteeing that its production chain is authentically made in Italy.

Our vegetables are ready to eat.

You can eat them as a simple and natural side dish by seasoning them with oil and salt, or you can use them to prepare more elaborate recipes.

Annatura is a choice.

The choice to follow a healthy lifestyle and to prefer the real flavours of the products from the earth.

We look forward to seeing you in every supermarket: come and discover the real face of nature.

Riso Margherita is a brand of excellence in the Italian rice production panorama. With an extension of almost 350 hectares of property, we produce the best varieties of Italian rice.

All stages of production (cultivation, drying, transformation and packaging) are followed and processed directly in our company.

The family and the work group are a guarantee of tradition and care in every step of the production which respects the feeling of cooperation to get a unique product of its kind, without compromise.

Our philosophy is to maintain the artisanal manufacturing techniques, innovating but remaining faithful to traditions.

The feature that distinguishes us is the "Stone Milling Process", an ancient processing method that allows to preserve all the organoleptic properties of the outer layers of the rice grain, taking on an amber colour that guarantees more flavour and an exceptional firmness when cooked. This method also allows the germ to remain naturally intact to the rice grain.

A rice earmarked for specialized gourmet retailers, high-level catering, in Italy and all around the world.
