AMBASSADOR'S MESSAGE

It is a true privilege for Italy to take part in the Singapore FinTech Festival (SFF) 2025 – with this year's edition marking its 10th anniversary as a global benchmark for innovation in financial technologies. As the festival celebrates a decade of impact, it continues to be a vital meeting point for industry leaders, policy-makers, startups, and investors driving the digital transformation of financial services.

This year's participation holds special significance, as it coincides with the 60th anniversary of diplomatic relations between Italy and Singapore – a milestone that reflects the strength of our long-standing friendship and growing cooperation across multiple sectors, including innovation and technology.

Italy reaffirms its commitment to international collaboration in the FinTech sector through the establishment of an official Italian Pavilion, coordinated by the Italian Trade Agency (ITA) Singapore, in partnership with the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation. Showcasing eight high-potential companies and YesMilano, the official promotion agency of the City of Milan, the Pavilion highlights the forefront of Italian innovation in areas such as artificial intelligence for finance, blockchain applications, digital payments, and cybersecurity. Through this collective presence, Italy aims to engage with global stakeholders, foster meaningful dialogue, and develop long-term partnerships in the evolving landscape of digital finance.

The Italian Pavilion will also benefit from the active participation of key institutional partners: AssoFintech, the national association connecting players across the Italian FinTech and InsurTech ecosystem, and FintechItalia, which brings together leading Italian entrepreneurs in the sector. Their presence underscores the collaborative strength of Italy's FinTech landscape and its growing international outlook.

This growing engagement shines through initiatives such as the Global Startup Program, which has propelled Italy into Singapore's vibrant innovation ecosystem and sparked dynamic collaborations across FinTech, InsurTech, and blockchain. Together, these efforts celebrate Italy's commitment to driving cross-border innovation and forging enduring connections between Italian and Asian markets.

Singapore's role as a global FinTech nexus makes it a natural ally for Italy. With its deep expertise, robust regulatory framework, and openness to innovation, Singapore offers an ideal platform for Italian companies looking to expand into Asia and beyond. The festival provides an exceptional opportunity to explore synergies, exchange knowledge, and co-develop solutions for the financial challenges of tomorrow.

I warmly invite all SFF attendees to visit the Italian Pavilion and discover the creativity, expertise, and technological drive that Italy brings to the global FinTech conversation. I am confident that this year's participation will lead to new and meaningful connections, and further strengthen the relationship between Italy and Singapore in the field of digital finance.

TRADE COMMISSIONER'S MESSAGE

Welcome to the Italian Pavilion! We are delighted to have you with us at the decennial anniversary of the Singapore FinTech Festival. Our pavilion is not just a showcase of cutting-edge technology, but a gateway to meaningful partnerships and business opportunities that transcend borders.

At the core of this year's festival, eight trailblazing Italian startups and innovative SMEs, together with YesMilano (Milano city's official promotion agency), will showcase cutting-edge technologies and investment opportunities that will reshape the future of finance. These innovators are not only driving the boundaries of technological advancement but are also eager to connect with global investors, industry leaders, and policymakers - opening new pathways for collaboration, growth, and international expansion.

This year the Pavilion, organized by the Italian Trade Agency, as part of the broader strategy of the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs to support innovative Italian companies, will feature an intensive program of pitching sessions and panel discussions this year. Singapore stands as a global FinTech hub, offering world-class talent, expertise, and opportunities for Italian startups looking to expand internationally. Our participation reflects the mutual recognition of each ecosystem's strengths and the vast potential for collaboration and innovation.

Looking ahead to 2026, the outlook for Italian FinTech is exceptionally promising. According to data from Tracxn, Italy's FinTech landscape continues to flourish, with USD$ 74.2 million raised in equity funding to date – representing a 46.8% increase compared to the same period in 2024. This remarkable growth is a clear testament to the sector's dynamic innovation, entrepreneurial drive, and the expanding global relevance of Italian FinTech.

The Singapore FinTech Festival represents more than just a showcase of Italian innovation—it's an open invitation. An invitation for global investors and partners to discover the potential of Italian startups and join us in shaping the future of global finance. Together, we can build a future that blends Italy's rich tradition of innovation with Singapore's leadership in FinTech.

We warmly welcome you to explore, connect, and collaborate with us as we embark on this exciting journey toward shared growth and innovation.
